JARKKO HAARLA

web developer | graphic designer

HELLO

I'm a tech-minded full stack web developer and a graphic designer. In the nearly 20 years I have been creating things, I have experimented with many different technologies. I've always been intrigued by what can be accomplished and created digitally and my creative journey has taken me all through the digital landscape. The most recent creative challenge has presented itself in the form of learning to code custom web technologies. I'm really looking forward to this journey.

EXPERIENCE

Full Stack Coding Bootcamp

As a recent graduate, I've learned a TON of new technologies - front and back end. Also learned the valuable skills of working in teams and how to learn more advanced concepts on my own. Our final group project was created for a company and is being currently used!

Mann Travels

As the lead graphic designer, I've managed countless projects. Some of these include: marketing materials - printed and digital, HTML emails, creation and maintenance of our intranet with wordpress and a mobile app. I also serve as the IT backup, troubleshooting any technology issues.

Freelance

Freelancing has created many opportunities to flex the creative muscles. I have created multiple brand identities, small business websites, built small business networks, and serve as a consultant for design and technology. Looking forward to taking on new challenges.
